LONDON LETTER

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S WAR BOOK

AUTHORS' EXPEDIENT

A SPECTACULAR REVIEW

[By "TOWNSMAN"]

London, Aug. 28.—Mr. Lloyd George's article on Ottawa and the interview on the subject which you published to-day have aroused widespread interest and vitally increased the eagerness of Free-traders to being the counter offensive to the Protectionist attack that has overwhelmed so much. Mr. Lloyd George, it can be said, is at his full resourceful strength and in wonderful spirits. The natural curiosity of all Free-traders about when he will be in his place after the reassembly of the House to take part in the tariff battle cannot, however, yet be satisfied as he has not decided his plans.

He is now at Churt in the middle of his work on his book on the Great War, and I understand that he is now about half-way through the first volume, which is to take the story up to 1916. It will not be a history of the war in the way that Mr. Winston Churchill has dealt with the subject. Rather, as I gather, it will deal thoroughly with the chief phases of the war time only as Mr. Lloyd George saw them, and it will be documented by important papers and correspondence. The account of the events in the Ministry on the eve of the war will be of supreme interest.

The further volumes will carry on to the conclusion of the war, but how long afterwards has not yet been decided. The first volume is expected to be published next year. Those nearest to Mr. Lloyd George say that he has been attacking the enormous labour entailed in this history with all his former vigour and resource of memory and vision.

An Historic Photograph.

A photograph in the long room at Churt, where Mr. Lloyd George does most of his work, has been of much interest to his visitors. It shows Lord Oxford and Mr. Lloyd George standing side by side, with the sunlight making a sort of halo of the abundant hair with which nature blessed both those statesmen. They are in happy mood, both smiling, and standing in front of them is a little girl, a daughter of Princess Bibesco, proud and excited, whom they seem to be following. Under the print in Lord Oxford's handwriting are the words, "And a little child shall lead them," and beneath that are the signatures of both statesmen. The photograph was taken by a member of the house party at Sutton Courtney in 1924.

The chief event at Churt recently was the great storm, when lightning struck Tilford Church and some farm buildings in Churt, and the killing of a snake about three feet long on Mr. Lloyd George's farm. It was, however, a grass snake, not a poisonous one, and it had recently swallowed a frog. Mr. Lloyd George's land now runs to about 200 acres, and he will be able to speak with some personal knowledge of the effects of Ottawa on the land in England.

Smiles in Downing Street.

The all-day Cabinet meeting yesterday aroused a good deal of attention, and the hundreds of curious sightseers attracted to Downing Street were evidently grateful for the staging of a large assemblage of the Ministers who have been making history. Those who had also visited the famous street during the emotional days of August a year ago must have been conscious of the difference in situation if not in scene. Even the cares of office, though they always remain, have been halved. The men who were wise in time now looked an inspiring company, their argosy freighted with successful statesmanship and the promise of more fields to conquer. As they posed to the cameras on the doorstep of No. 10 they made pleasing pictures, life size; and when they finally emerged, after licking the Governmental machine into shape, the affability of their good-byes was the best answer to the political enemies who would rather they were not a happy family.

Famous Tavern Doomed?

Architectural progress, I hear, is threatening another famous tavern in the City of London—the George and Vulture. Heere Steele, Addison, Swift, Daniel Defoe, and John Wilkes were regular visitors. Charles Dickens often slept at the George and Vulture, which is still the meeting-place of the flourishing Pickwick Club. To-day the tavern is a midget among the towering buildings of Cornhill, and it is feared that when its present lease expires it will go for ever to make room for still more offices.

Authors' Expedient.

A well-known writer and artist tells me that several authors are taking the cue from Shaw, Lawrence, and others of publishing only a limited edition of their works and making them available exclusively to subscribers. They frankly aver that this is a better paying proposition than allowing a large number of copies to be printed and subsequently depreciated in value by finding their way to the second-hand bookshops. I am told that the authorcum-artist is also finding that publishers are more ready to make a book a better artistic production both in quality of paper and binding when they are assured a set number of subscribers.

The Three Orchestras.

It was often said during the past musical season that London could no longer provide a public for three rival orchestras, and that one of the three would have to go under. At one time it was positively announced that the London Symphony Orchestra and the Philharmonic were about to solve their difficulties by merging into one organisation. Nothing of the kind, however, has happened, and we still have three separate orchestras—the B.B.C., the London Symphony Orchestra, and the Philharmonic—each flourishing a confident prospectus for the coming season. The last-named body has rejuvenated itself by coming out as the London Orchestra with an existence of its own. Moreover, all but one of its concerts for the Philharmonic Society are to be conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham.

"Over the Page."

That one American comedian is worth two British funny men seems to be suggested in the spectacular revue, "Over the Page," which opened at the Alhambra last night. The new production is the revised version of the unfortunate "Fanfare," the principal fault of which was that it lacked humour. The American Joe Cook was apparently too subtle for Londoners. In "Over the Page" the funny side of the show is in the hands of Billy Merson and George Gee who are probably sharing the £600 a week which, I hear, was paid to Joe Cook, but by no stretch of imagination can it be said that the number of laughs has been doubled. Only June of the big company of "stars" has scored in the revised version, which, though undoubtedly a spectacular feast, is still lacking in humour.

Thames Coming Into Its Own.

As I stood on the bank on the upper reaches of the Thames this afternoon watching rowing boats, canoes, motor vessels, yachts, and steamship moving up and down the river, an old Londoner remarked to me that in all his fifty years' experience he had never seen the great waterway play so large a part in the social life of London as it is doing nowadays. In point of fact, the Thames is just being discovered by thousands of Londoners who have hitherto gone to the seaside or to the Continent for their week-end vacations.

ENGINEERING AND BUILDING

NEWPORT—IN SOUTH WALES

ENGINEERING FIRMS BUSY

Among the new developments which have occurred and contracts which have been secured in the Newport area of South Wales, are the following:—

The British Mannesmann Tube Co., Ltd., have secured a contract for a substantial quantity of line pipe from the Iraq Petroleum Company, which will kept this firm's large Newport works fully occupied for five or six months. The order was obtained in open market, where keen foreign competition had to be faced.

John Lysaght, Ltd., who have large works alongside the River Usk, which flows into the Severn at Newport, have recently completed extensions by laying down a galvanising plant which embraces the latest machinery. This innovation enables the black sheets produced at these works to be galvanised on the spot, and a large number of additional men are employed. The galvanished sheets from their works are produced for overseas markets and shipped from Newport Docks to all parts of the world.

Burt, Boulton & Haywood, Ltd., have recently extended their works at the Newport Docks to cope with their increased business. They specialise in making creosoted telegraph poles, railway sleepers, etc.

The British Oil Storage Co., Ltd., recently established an oil and motor spirit distributing depot alongside the River Usk at Newport, where storage tanks have been erected, and from their private wharf tank steamers discharge their bulk cargoes to the storage tanks.

HAMMERS THROUGH THE AGES

MAN'S FIRST TOOL

Which was the first tool that man used for making tools? No expert is here required; without doubt it was the hammer. Earliest implements were flint scrapers with which a beast was skinned, or wool was shaped for use. And the making of the flint scraper required force provided by stored energy—by a hammerblow in fine. I claim it as true then that mechanical history began with the hammer, and I have therefore dared to take as the title of the address that I present to your indulgent attention, "Humanity under the Hammer." The great and ancient guilds of Hammer-men, most famous perhaps in Glasgow, declare in their creed, "By hammer in hand all arts do stand," and under that sign are enrolled in composite unity goldsmith, silversmith, blacksmith, coppersmith, armourer, cutler, swordmaker, gunmaker, saddler, bucklemaker, clockmaker, pewterer, nailmaker, hookmaker, founder.

Flint, which is the material first made by hammers into tools, is homogeneous in structure.

The men with the technique of the Stone Age were later either destroyed, dispersed, or educated by those who had learnt the art of working in bronze. Examples remain of bronze hammers, rather of the pestle type, but bronze wore rapidly away, and was readily recast by the founder, so that not much evidence is preserved of hammers of that civilisation which immediately proceded the introduction of iron. With the forging or iron the hammer head could be made in any shape that the form of the article manufactured required, and the infinite variety began which has been carried on with an unintermittent and expanding series to this day.

Hammer heads have a variety in shape which is surprising, as any trade catalogue will show. We can only notice a few; but we cannot fail to start with the "Monday" hammer, called after Monday, the least-loved day of the working week; 28 lb. it is in weight. There is in the Dales of Sheffield a superlative Monday hammer which weighs 140 lb. and was used for breaking scrap—an heroic implement described in one homeric sentence: "Me and my mate lifts it up, and the Lord sends it down."

There is a trade that perhaps might be described as hammering par excellence. To be able to reduce a piece of metal to one 280,000th of the thickness from which a start was made is indeed a feat, but the gold-beaters have been doing work of this kind since the time before history began. A bar of gold, about 2½ oz. in weight, is rolled to a length of 6½ yards and cut into pieces 1 in. square. This is the "cutch" piece. One hundred and eighty are piled in the cutch and beaten to 3½ in. square—half-an-hour's work. The finished cutch sheets are cut in four and put in the "shoder," comprised of 700 skins, and beaten out to the edge, say, 4 in. square—two hours' beating. The shoder gold is lifted out, into four and put into a mould 5 in. square. This takes five hours; a thousand pieces are beaten at once between a thousand skins. The resulting leaf is 1/280,000-in. thick; the centre is cut out to 3½ in. square, placed in books, and sold for use. Stone hammers with traces of the precious metal still upon them, have been found at Ur of the Chaldees, — Lieut.-Col. E. Kitson Clark in his Presidential Address to the Institution of Mechanical Engineers, reported in Engineering.

SUPPLYING EUROPE

AMERICAN FIRM USES ENGLAND AS CENTRE

Mr. Henry Ford, having decided that it is better and cheaper to manufacture for the European market in England, many other American firms have come to the same conclusion. Among the latest to take this step has been Liptak Furnace Arches, Ltd., who have established a works at Broadheath, near Altrincham, for the manufacture of high-temperature cement, and its marketing in Europe.

The works have recently been equipped for the manufacture of fire-brick and furnace-arch cement, and are now in full swing. The new factory will supply the whole of the company's European market. Formerly European customers were supplied from the company's factory in Missouri, U.S.A., where several thousands of workpeople are employed. "Now," said an official, "we are simply importing the raw material and are manufacturing the product in England. At the present time, the works are on a comparatively small scale, but there is plenty of room for expansion, and eventually it may become an important undertaking."

DIESEL ENGINES

EXPERIMENTS ON RAIL AND ROAD

Following experiments for some months on local services round Newcastle-on-Tyne with an oil-electric motor-train, the second of these trains was completed last month at the Scotswood works of the Armstrong-Whitworth Company. The train made a run to London, a distance of 271 miles, in less than six hours and at a total fuel cost of 11s. 5d. Fuel consumption was 42·2 gallons of diesel oil and there was enough oil in the tanks to make the return journey without refuelling.

Developments in the use of oil-electric engines have been held back in Great Britain by the high cost of petrol, but the progress of the diesel engine, burning heavy oils, has removed this obstacle. It is claimed for the diesel-electric engine that it is cheaper than coal, that it can be operated by one man, that it works without smoke or coal dust, and that it needs neither stoking nor grate-cleaning

EAST AND WEST.

A Railway's Census.

A recent one-day census of all general merchandise traffic handled by the London Midland and Scottish Railway, shows that in the case of over 100,000 consignments conveyed by goods train, 92 per cent. were actually in the possession of the consignees on the second day after being handed to the railway.

New Gas-making Process.

Cheaper gas is being provided for many east-Lancashire towns as the result of a new process of treating coal. Experiments were first made at a group of collieries at Altham with a vein of coal of low sulphuric content and they were so successful that the neighbouring towns of Accrington and Haslingden have given up making gas, and take it direct from a works erected near the collieries.

The larger town of Burnley has arranged to take its supply of gas, and other towns are contemplating a similar step. Other collieries are expected to take up the process.

New Shanghai Railway Terminus.

Plans for the transfer and reconstruction of the Shanghai North railway-station at a site near Chenju, involving an approximate outlay of $10,000,000, have been made due consideration to future expansion, and should be sufficient to serve the needs for the next fifty years, according to a high official of the Ministry of Railways. The first part of the programme comprises office buildings for the various departments of the Shanghai-Nanking and Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway Administration.

Speeding Up Contracts.

In order to speed up the making of contracts for the carriage of goods, the London Midland and Scottish Railway is spending a large sum of money on a new telephone service. By this means, local officials of the railway will be able immediately to consult with district officers, and, if necessary, with the head office in London. Instead of being compelled to await written instructions, local officials will be able to arrange contracts on the spot.

Oil in New Guinea.

At a meeting of shareholders of Messrs. Mandated Development Co., Limited, held recently in Sydney, New South Wales, to confirm an agreement with Messrs. Oil Search, Limited, Mr. E. L. Walter, managing director of the latter company, stated that of nine shallow bore holes sunk in the Matapau area of the Mandated Territory of New Guinea, seven had produced oil of high quality. Analytical results reported by the Federal Government Analyst had given 41.5 per cent. of petrol, 23 per cent. of kerosene, 24.5 per cent. of fuel oil, and 11 per cent. of heavy oil and wax.—Engineering.

Shanghai's Building Materials.

The bulk of Shanghai's imports of softwood lumber and railway ties comes from the United States, but hardwood imports are very small. The United States also supplies a great part of Shanghai's imports of shooks for making casks.

Under the head of building materials are included asphalt—practically all of which comes from the United States; bathroom and lavatory fittings, of which the United States supplies the bulk; casements, doors and gates; gypsum, elevators, plaster of Paris, putty, and roofing—a large part of all these articles originating in the United States.—Commerce Reports.

Efficient Port Equipment.

Coal and coke shipments from West Hartlepool during the first half of 1932 amounted to 1,612,278 tons, an increase of 42,068 tons compared with the same period of 1931. The development of collieries in the south-eastern part of the county of Durham has been responsible for the steady increase in coal shipments from this port.

New appliances have just been installed by the London and North Eastern Railway Co., the owners of the docks, capable of shipping coal at the rate of 500 tons per hour. These are part of a scheme of improvements which have taken nearly two years to complete, with the result that the port is now equipped with plant of the utmost efficiency for dealing both with coal cargoes and with bunkers.

The Rio Negro Bridge, Argentina.

The recent inauguration in Argentina of the Rio Negro Bridge has opened up a greatly needed means of communication between the Province of Rio Negro and Buenos Aires, and makes possible the only direct rail connection between the northern and the southern portions of the Republic.

The bridge, built by a German engineering firm for the State Railways, accommodates rail, vehicular, and pedestrian traffic. It is of cantilever type, with a length of 270 metes (885 feet) between buttresses. There are two fixed spans 86 metres (282 feet) in length on the Patagones side of the river, an opening span of 52 metres (170 feet) over the main channel, and a small span of 46 metres (151 feet) on the Viedma side, all of steel construction. The movable portion of the bridge is electrically operated and can be opened or closed in two minutes.

Traffic on the bridge is controlled by a modern system of signal lights. The barriers at either end of the bridge open and close automatically.

£900,000 of Housing.

An expenditure of £900,000 over the next twenty years is estimated to be the cost of developing the Speke estate of the Liverpool Corporation, on the outskirts of the city. This estate was recently acquired by that municipality, and it is to be planned on the most modern lines. Land is reserved for housing a population of about 55,000, at a density of twelve or sixteen houses per acre.

Three hundred and thirty acres are reserved for an aerodrome—which is already partly constructed and in actual use, 107 acres for institutions, 185 acres for a golf course, and 320 acres for industrial purposes in an area which is well served by rail and road transport.

New Highway in Chinkiang.

Construction work has been started on the Chungshan road, the main highway of Chinkiang, by the Provincial Department of Reconstruction. In order to expedite completion of the work, traffic has been suspended on sections of the projected route. As the highway will start from the main railway-station west of the city, trains on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway will now stop at the South Gate Station for the convenience of the public.

Forest Reservations in North-west.

Plans have been drafted by the Forestry Reclamation Administration of the Ministry of Industry for the creation of a model area in the North-west. In a communication to the Hopei Provincial Government, the Ministry requests that the rich forests at Tungling, northern Hopei, be adequately guarded against unauthorised cutting. Regulations to this end have been drafted and forwarded to the local authorities.

Factory Moves While Working.

A factory in full production has just been moved by the Great Western Railway from London to Chippenham—94 miles—without interruption with its business. The removal included 750 tons of machinery, the household effects of thirty-six families and over one hundred persons.

Every bit of the traffic was conveyed in containers and the removal so arranged that machinery at work one night was dismantled, loaded in containers, conveyed by road to Paddington Station, London, for dispatch by rail to Chippenham and re-erection in the new factory in time for immediate use next morning. No piece of machinery was out of use for longer than fourteen hours.

WAR CAPTIVE HELD SIXTEEN YEARS

GERMAN'S ESCAPE FROM FRENCH PRISON IN TUNIS

—Berlin, Sept. 17.—Interest has been revived here in the case of Oscar Daubmann, who in 1916 was taken prisoner by French troops on the Western front and only recently succeeded in escaping from a French prison camp near Tunis. When he returned to Germany the German Foreign Office took the matter up with the French government, without, however, having so far got a satisfactory reply.

Daubmann himself to-day gave a detailed account of his adventures at a meeting of the Association of Former Prisoners of War, describing as the climax of his suffering his flight and escape.

Refuting the official French version that there existed no documentary evidence in support of his allegations, Daubmann declared that such evidence could easily be got through an official investigation on the spot, namely in the Tunis prison, in the presence of French and German officials. A request to that effect will, Daubmann said, shortly be presented to the French authorities by the Berlin Foreign Office.

BETS ON A BICYCLE.

THE P.C. CAUGHT THE IDEA —AND THE MAN

As Percy Puttick, aged 43, of South-avenue-gardens, Southall, was standing in the street at Southall two men went up to him and gave him slips of paper.

A few minutes later a man went up to him on a bicycle and did the same thing.

Then another on a bicycle went to him.

This second cyclist was a police constable in plain clothes, and he arrested Puttick.

At Ealing Police Court Puttick was fined £3 3s. for loitering for betting.

MORE TROUBLE IN LANCASHIRE

THREAT OF ANOTHER STRIKE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.

THE troubles of the Lancashire cotton industry are not yet over. With the termination of the weavers' strike comes a definite threat of a strike in the spinning section of the industry.

After a six-hour conference at Manchester to-day between the representatives of the cotton-spinning employers and operatives in regard to the question of a reduction of wages, the negotiations broke down.

The employers offered to reduce their demands for a wage reduction and said they would accept a cut of 13.5 per cent. off the standard rates, just as has been done on the manufacturing side of the industry.

The operatives refused the offer and declined to advance their concession previously offered, namely to accept a reduction not exceeding 7½ per cent. or tenpence in the pound.

The employers have given notice of a reduction of wages which will expire on October 15. The operatives declare that they will resist.

The market again failed to demonstrate its ability to emerge from the narrow trading area. EMPIRE TRADE

WORK OF IMPERIAL ECONOMIC COMMITTEE.

London, August 24.—The twenty-sixth report of the Imperial Economic Committee, published to-day (Stationery Office, price 6d.), describes the constitution and work of the Committee since its inception in 1925. The report says:—

In the scope of the Committee's activities and in the procedure followed, a constant evolution has taken place. From being confined to the consideration of the marketing of Empire foodstuffs within the United Kingdom, the duties of the Committee have been extended to embrace subjects affecting particular trades and industries, and to complete work on which, for lack of information, no further progress could be made during the sitting of an Imperial Conference. In the case, for instance, of "Empire content" of goods qualifying for preference, the Committee presented for consideration at the Ottawa Conference a report setting out principles the adoption of which would, it was believed, promote Empire trade. In the matter of procedure, from taking all inquiries in details before the full Committee, it has adopted a system of working through sub-committees which permits the simultaneous prosecution of several inquiries and at the same time ensures to the Committee full cognizance of each subject.

Since 1930 there has been a further development. Under the direction of an Imperial Conference it has nominated a committee representative of the Governments of the Empire and expert associations to assist in a particular inquiry. This increased flexibility in the Committee's procedure has enabled it to conduct economic inquiries of a diverse character remitted by successive Imperial Conferences.

£55,500,000 IN DORMANT FUNDS

COMMITTEE PLAN TO BENEFIT EXCHEQUER

Millions of pounds lying dormant in the possession of the High Court are the subject of a report just issued by the Dormant Funds Committee, who announce that these funds now total £55,000,000.

The committee recommend that any surplus income derived from that part of the funds invested should in future be surrendered to the Exchequer. The surplus for 1930-31 was £35,000.

On the question whether there should be any time limit as to the payment of interest or capital, it is mentioned that quite recently a fund was paid out of court which, by reason of the mental incapacity of the owner, had remained undealt with for 48 years.

There were many cases where funds had been dealt with after thirty years of dormancy, and in some cases up to 64 years of dormancy; in fact, there were 1,200 accounts which had been dormant for over 80 years, and their aggregate value was estimated at not less than £250,000.

With regard to the Land Registry Insurance Fund, the report states that this at the present time consists of Government stocks of the nominal value of £350,000. In view of the very few claims against the fund, the committee recommend that the trustees of the fund should surrender to the Exchequer the whole of the fund except stocks of the actual value of £100,000.

UNREST AMONG GERMANY'S WORKERS.

Berlin, September 15.—Working circles are protesting violently against the reduction of salaries by the Government and declare that the only result can be an increase in the number of unemployed and quote doctors' declarations that 25 per cent. of the German nation is undernourished. It is feared that this percentage will increase with the reduction of salaries.

CALICO PRINTERS' ASSOCIATION

£157,000 PROFIT

London, Aug. 24.—The directors of the Calico Printers' Association yesterday issued a statement showing that the profit for the year to June 30 was £157,458, which compares with a loss of £175,289 for 1930-1. The board has decided to pay the full dividend on the five per cent. preference stock, which absorbs £150,805, and to carry forward £10,476 against £3,823 brought in. No dividend is to be paid on the ordinary capital, which has received none since the five per cent. paid for 1928-9.

The president, Mr. Mortimer Buckner, announces that the Corporation will function through its subsidiaries, the Commodity Acceptance Corporation, and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Its operations will be of nation-wide scope, and will include loans to mills, manufacturers, etc., for purchasing basic commodities.

The Corporation itself is forbidden to purchase commodities.

HEALTHY FINANCE

BRITISH TREASURY REPAYMENTS PRAISED BY FRANCE.

London, August 26.—British stock, which rose in France on the success of the War Loan conversion, has soared still higher on the announcement of the British Treasury's decision to repay on Saturday to the Bank of France the 900,000,000 francs granted in August, 1931, to support the £1.

This reimbursement to the minute, coupled with that of $50,000,000 to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, is hailed as healthy finance, and "will not only have the best possible effect on British credit, but will strengthen financial confidence throughout the world."

Financial circles attribute the recent weakness of the £1 to the purchase of dollars and francs for the purpose of this repayment (says Reuter.) It is thought that the £1 will now probably rise again.

IMPRISONMENT FOR "SUN GOD"

A REMARKABLE CAREER

PUSHED POLICEWOMAN INTO WATER

Described by the defence as a "sun-bathing enthusiast," and known to his followers as the "Sun God," a man who pushed a policewoman into the Serpentine was sent to gaol by Mr. Mead, the Marlborough Street magistrate.

Incidents that occurred on the bank of the famous stretch of water in Hyde Park were referred to in court, it being revealed that accused, prior to the offence with which he was charged, had threatened the officer with a ducking if children were not allowed to bathe in a prohibited area.

In the course of a remarkable career the man, who looked like a bronzed giant in the dock, has held scholastic positions in South Africa and England, and rose to the rank of captain in the War.

He has often been in conflict with the authorities in the course of campaigns advocating sun-bathing, and was once evicted from a piece of land where he built a hut to practise the cult.

Over six feet in height, with his skin bronzed to a deep copper hue through continual exposure to the sun, Harold Hubert Vincent, 51, described as an engineer, of Edgware Road, W., who was accused of obstructing Policewoman Annie Matthews, assaulting her, and damaging her uniform, presented a striking appearance in the dock at Marlborough Street. He wore a tennis shirt open at the neck., grey flannel trousers, and canvas shoes with no socks.

Vincent, who was educated in South Africa, has had a remarkable career. After taking a degree in science and arts, he became a teacher at a native school, but soon resigned this position. In his early teens he enlisted in the South African Constabulary, as a trooper, and when the Boer War broke out volunteered for active service, taking part in the relief of Ladysmith.

After that war he returned to police duty, and it was he who arrested Gandhi and sent him to gaol at Durban. He next worked as an engineer in connection with gold mines in Rhodesia, and subsequently came to England.

Served as Transport Officer.

During the Great War he served as a transport officer, holding the rank of captain, in France. After Vincent had been found guilty of the offence with which he was now charged and sentenced to three months in the second division, several convictions were proved against him, a police officer stating that none of them was for a similar offence. Some of the offences were for "indecency" connected with sun-bathing.

Vincent has been an advocate of sun-bathing for many years, and has founded a number of organisations. He is known to his followers as the "Sun God." His activities in Hyde Park brought him into conflict with the police, and, indignant at what he deemed to be injustice, he once visited the House of Commons, and from the Strangers' Gallery threw a bundle of documents to the floor of a startled House.

Abandoning Hyde Park, Vincent next moved to Hendon, where he built a hut on a piece of derelict land. This he considered as "No Man's Land," but the authorities had him removed and the hut demolished. Relating the story of her unexpected adventure, Policewoman Matthews now told the magistrate that the day previous to the incidents complained of Vincent remarked to her, "If you don't let the children bathe I will give you a ducking." She did not take the threat seriously.

She was cross-examined by Mr. John Elborne, defending, who asked if he would be correct in saying that the spot where she alleged she was pushed in was only 20 inches deep. "The water came up to here," replied the policewoman, pointing just above her waist.

"Shot Out Into the Water."

Mr. Elborne: Do you still suggest that a violent blow struck you eight, nine, or ten yards into the water?—Witness. When I came out I was eight to ten yards from the bank. I was shot out into the water eight or ten yards.

Policewoman Matthews denied that she told Vincent, "I will put you back where you have been."

Vincent, in the witness-box, declared that he had no intention of carrying out his threats against the policewoman, but he did think his warning to her not to interfere with the children bathing would stop her being too officious.

"I suppose I have got to take the blame for this so-called assault," Vincent went on. "It was not an assault at all. I myself was pushed, and I lost my balance, and fell on to the woman, putting out my hands to save myself, and that is how she got into the water."

"I did not push the woman into the water at all. The man who shook hands with me afterwards, I believe, was the man who pushed me. He may have done it for a joke, for all I know."

Quite Willing to Apologise.

Mr. Elborne: You are sorry for what you did?—I am quite willing to apologise for having inflicted upon her a public indignity. I cannot say any more than that. I hope she will accept it.

Mr. Mead: Did you say that it was an accident to anybody?—No. I took the blame for it.

Why do you say now that it was an accident?—I had made threats the day before, and it seemed rather silly to say anything.

Does it not seem silly now?—It does, I quite agree. I was wishful at the time that the public should think that I had carried out my threats.

Mr. Mead observed that Vincent boasted, the last time he was before the Court, of his action and wished to take credit for doing what he regarded as a "public-spirited thing."

Mr. Elborne pointed out that Vincent was a sun-bathing enthusiast and, rightly or wrongly, he thought he was doing the right thing.

In sentencing Vincent the magistrate observed:—

"The policewoman was doing what she was told to do. If she had neglected to do it, or had refused to do it, she would have been amenable to punishment or for reprimand for not doing her duty.

"It seems to have been an unpopular duty, for, being a very hot day, people wanted to bathe anywhere in any part, whether it was forbidden or not. Vincent ought to have known that was a forbidden area."

A SEA CENSUS

The idea of taking an annual census of the finny tribes of the North Sea was at first regarded by many old fishermen as a joke. Now there is no question of a joke about it. The "Sea Census" is regarded by British fishermen, trawl-owners, and fish merchants as a scientific achievement of the greatest possible economic value to every section of the fishing industry. By means of the census it is possible to forecast not only the quantity but the quality of supplies from eighteen months to two years ahead, a form of "market supply" information which is not available for any land industry.

As an example of what is being done by the marine biologists responsible for the work, we may take the haddock census since 1926. The forecast in 1926 foretold prime condition and a high yield for the autumn of 1928 and throughout 1929. That in 1927 revealed poor condition and small catches for the whole of 1930. The 1928 census declared that haddocks would be good, but not prime, and supplies average for 1931, and the early part of the present year. The accuracy of these forecasts ruled out any question of chance or coincidence. They were too exact for that. That is why the trade is not too happy about the prospects for the remainder of this year and the first half of 1933, for the census issues the warning that haddocks will be fewer and smaller for the next eighteen months! So far only the haddock and herring "populations" have been investigated, as they are the most important commercially, but it is now proposed to extend the system to all marketable species.

AL CAPONE, RANCHER

WILL QUIT RACKETEERING AFTER LEAVING JAIL

Ponca City, Oklahoma.—When Al Capone completes his sentence in the Atlantic Federal Prison, he may become overlord of Oklahoma's famed 17,000 Acre 101-Ranch.

Colonel Zack Miller, last of the pioneer family which built the vast ranch into a Western show place and virtually a dominion unto itself, has confirmed reports that negotiations are in progress for sale of the property to the former Chicago gang leader, his brother, Ralph, and Associates.

A local real-estate dealer said the Capone brothers were going to "Beat back" if they obtained the ranch.

"The Capone boys," he said, "are quitting the racket and are going to retire to active management of the ranch if the deal goes through."

He explained that Capone wanted to settle the ranch with Italians and carry on intensive farming.

NET-BALL

An asset which only comes with weeks and weeks of practice, ball and body control, is that extra polish which defines the class player, and is always the deciding factor when a selection committee has to deliberate over team positions for an important match.

First (get this straight! as they say in America), on no account must you get the impression that the dexterity of your arms is the only accomplishment necessary to enable you to exercise ball control. You would be completely wrong if you did, for the ability to maintain your balance by correct footwork is just the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful catch.

It is this spring, with the whole of the body working in close co-operation, that makes the game so good to play, and to watch, as any regular spectator will tell you.

To be able to execute this spring would be useless, of course, if you had failed to practise your catching, so include the latter in your training schedule.

You will attain complete mastery of the ball more quickly if you retire to a quiet corner of your playground or garden with a few friends, and try out the following directions a few hours a week.

Stand in the alert position already described, and get your chums to throw balls at you in rotation. The operation of throwing the ball should always be sudden, just as it would be in a real game, and, of course, from various directions, so that you have to take the ball in all positions, bent forward, sideways, backwards, etc.

Two or three small dogs,
A pinch of brook and some pebbles.

Mix the children and the dogs well together and put them in the field, stirring constantly.

Pour the brook over the pebbles, sprinkle the field with flowers, spread over all a deep-blue sky, and bake in the hot sun.

When brown, remove and set away to cool—in a bath-tub.

THE CLOWN

How I should love to be a clown,
And live my life half upside down,

That it could light the way to bed;
Always to say such funny things
That I could play in circus rings.

K.C.C. ANNUAL MEETING

YEAR'S ACTIVITIES REVIEWED

ELECTION OF OFFICE BEARERS

The annual General Meeting of the Kowloon Cricket Club was held yesterday evening in the Club-house, when the president of the Club, Mr. R. E. Lindsell presided over a gathering of 70 members.

In reviewing the year's activities, Mr. Lindsell said that the Club had continued with its many activities. Most pleasing of which was the winning of the Lawn Bowls First League by the Club team.

The cricket year had been a lean, but active one; the bowling strength being not quite strong enough on several occasions to dismiss the opposing teams. He congratulated Mr. Burnett, however, on his succes with the ball.

Tribute was also paid to Mr. F. S. W. Smith of the second league, who was outstandingly successful with bat and ball, as well as taking the most number of catches.

Event of the Year.

The great event of the year, of course, was the opening of the new Club-house, and congratulations were due to the building subcommittee for the able and efficient manner in which they had seen the project through. In reviewing the accounts, Mr. Lindsell drew attention to the position that, owing to funds having been swallowed up by the erection of the new Club-house, no interest on investments would be forthcoming this year. The depreciation on the old buildings was about the same as that of last year.

It was hoped that a substantial sum would have been raised on the old pavilion, but this hope was not realised, only $340 being obtained.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Abraham the report and balance sheet were adopted.

Mr. J. P. Robinson Retires.

In calling for nominations for the position of secretary Mr. Lindsell made reference to the sterling services rendered to the Club in the past by the retiring secretary, Mr. J. P. Robinson, who had to go into hospital shortly and undergo an operation. The Ballot for the position of secretary resulted as follows:—

Mr. A. Hyde Lay 39 votes, Mr. S. Green 18 votes and Mr. J. Hargreaves 8 votes.

Position of Treasurer.

On Mr. Skinner's name being again submitted for the position of treasurer, Mr. Lindsell said.—

In connection with the Club's accounts, a letter containing some serious suggestions for the consideration of your Committee was put before them at the last meeting by Mr. Skinner. One of the main suggestions was the employment, in part at any rate, of a firm of chartered accountants. The committee felt that this matter should be gone into more fully and exhaustively than they were able to at that time. Mr. Skinner at the time wished to resign and we persuaded him to stand again, but only on condition that once this matter had been decided one way or another he should be allowed to resign. In view of this, I move his re-election on this condition Mr. Skinner was unanimously re-elected.

New Financial Management.

Later on in the meeting Mr. C. W. Jeffries proposed and Mr. E. Kern seconded a motion that Mr. Skinner's suggestion of putting the financial management of the Club into the hands of a firm of chartered accountants be adopted. The motion was carried by an overwhelming majority.

In reference to the possibilities of developing the vacant piece of land near the Club-house, the chairman suggested that the matter be allowed to stand over until next year at least.

In the light of the Club's recent heavy expenditure, a campaign of rigid economy was considered politic. Mr. Jeffries supported the chairman's remarks and moved that the matter of developing this vacant land be left until next year. Mr. Bunje seconded the motion which was carried unanimously.

Election of Officers.

The election of office-bearers for the coming season resulted as follows.—

President, Mr. R. E. Lindsell; Vice-President, Mr. E. Abraham; Captain, Mr. F. Goodwin; Vice-Captain, Mr. E. C. Fincher; Hon. Secretary, Mr. A. Hyde Lay; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. E. Skinner pro-tem; Bowls Representative, Mr. H. and V. C. Labrun, Overy. Committee: Messrs. R. S. Logan, W. W. Hurst, J. Hyde, E. C. Fincher, F. E. Nash, A. W. Brown, and V. C. Labrum. Balloting Committee: Messrs. E. S. Abraham, J. C. Lyal, J. S. Smith, A. T. Lay, R. Rathmell, C. J. Tacchi, L. J. Blackburn, F. E. Lawrence, G. A. White and L. Jack.

Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews were re-appointed auditors to the Club, and the motion that the usual honorarium of $350 be paid to the Secretary, treasurer and hon.convenor was passed unanimously.

THE HONGKONG DAILY PRESS

MR. PEPYS IN HONG KONG.

24th.—This day I rose betimes and, while trimming myself, did reflect that I have much business to do, and so while thinking how I may order the doing thereof I do cut my chin, to my greatest possible discontent. So to my office where I am very busy ordering my papers and providing myself with monies for the Races. Then, all being in order to the Clubbe where I drink a glass or two of Holland's waters with some officers of one of the King's ships and with them in a motor coach to the races, where in the Naval Box I drink it may be one more glass of Hollands, and so to the Jockey Clubbe House where I make my nuncheon upon sandwiches and a stoup of usquebagh. For the first race I bet not, being a certainty, but upon the second I venture a wager upon my old friend Valorous, but he is out-classed and finishes nowhere. Later, I do hear that his stable-companion Dailight Eve wins very handsomely at which I am greatly pleased for Mr. J. Heard his sake, though the dividend this time be less. But ere this I was away and about my business at Kowloon where the K.C.C. do play at Krickett with the Rest and at a half after four of the clock the New Pavilion be opened, which is as fine a place as ever I saw. There I dined with Mr. Goodwin and Mr. Lyal, and very merry after dancing, their ladies and many large parties being there; but later the great Hall become so full of couples that I betake myself to the ground where I find a pretty Lady and her Lord, my very good friends. And with them and others we sit at a table and drink a glass or two of strong waters and the ladies hippocras. Later homeward and I share the motor-wherry with a stranger whom I never before saw, and do spin a coin with him at whose charges it shall be; and in the end I win, and so am much beholden to him and his lady.

25th, Lord's Day.—Lay late, and did break my fast lightly with a cup of milk. But anon while ordering my papers, I do feel very well, and of a ravenous hunger and so make shift to stay my stomack with a sandwich of beef and a flaggon of ale. At four of the clock to the Valley where I watch a good match at bowls between the Customs and those of the City Watch that do hail from Scotland. And at the last head the Scots lead by four, and then Mr. E. Tuck lays a couple of fine woods upon a long head, and it comes to a measure in the end, both sides being most opinionastre but after some ten minutes when the measure be well nigh worn out, the Customs prove to lie four, and win the last head. Which do so please me that I would have them drink a flaggon of ale or a glass of strong waters with me, and so we do in amity. So back to the Clubbe and to dinner and later after reading a piece, to my bed.

26th.—Reading this morning in the Newes-sheetes, I learn that there is an objection lodged against Champagne Bay. Of which when I speak to Mr. Povy and Mr. Ashby later upon the verandah of the Clubbe, we are agreed that it is exceeding wrong to pay wagers upon the pony first past the post. For there be so many ways whereby the profit upon a wager may be obtained and yet the owner lose the money of the stakes. Whereat I remind them how many years ago a pony wins but in weighing out is fourteen pounds below the proper weight, seeing that the mafoos had slipped the dead weight from the saddle after weighing in. And so they make great profit of the wagering while the owner, who betted not, lost of his stake.

27th.—A fair day, and early to my office where I read the Newes sheetes and see that there has been an outrage at Chittagong but some of the murderers slain too, of which I am mighty glad. No sure news of Mrs. Pawley and the other captive, and I pray that things shall go well. But it is a sorry commentary upon the disorder which pertains everywhere in the North, whence comes naught but rumours of wars and terrors. This night very warm in my chamber, the wind being North-East.

28th.—This night I slept badly but had drowsed off about six of the clock to be awaken'd half hour later by two pneumatic drills which clatter upon the tramway track before my windows with a most appalling din. And long and deep anathemas do I cast upon the head of the Comptroller, though I am half of a mind that the clatter be so great it will even disturb his slumbers at Shek-O, which may Heaven grant, for spoiling of my beauty sleep. News this day of a great earthquake said to be centred in the North Atlantique. To bed early to try and recapture some slumber.

29th.—Yet again the drills at half past six of the clock, which to my mind is a publick scandal. News of great damage in Greece from the earthquake which I understand not, as the scientists did locate it in the Atlantique and they can no more be wrong than a water meter of the Works Publique.

30th.—This day very busy at my office, it being the month end. And after enquiry I make a note to stock my cellars in due course, the factor being down to one twenty-five and all duty paid stocks well nigh depleted or so I hear, and so too of tobacco. News comes this evening that the great new Italian liner Rex breaks down or ever she reaches Gibraltar upon her maiden trip. And, says Creed when I tell him, this ship and George Phillipar would seem to show it were well for Italy and France to rattle the sabre less, and to concentrate more upon the arts of peace of which ship-building be one. Home early and very busy writing my mail, and so to bed.

CHENG'S APPEAL

RESPITE OF DEATH SENTENCE

THREE MONTHS GRANTED

A respite of three months has been granted to Cheng Kwok Yau, who was recently sentenced to death for procuring the murder of George Fung.

The application of the defence was considered by the Executive Council in session on Thursday.

The defence is now busily engaged preparing the papers for presentation to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. It is anticipated that this task will take a month.

PETITION BY LOCAL CHINESE

A movement is afoot locally to forward a petition to the Executive Council, pleading for Cheng's life, urging as a reason for clemency, Cheng's tender age.

Cheng Kwok Yau is a grandson of the late Cheng Kwai, who was of valuable assistance to the British Government during the Great War. Cheng is heir to part of the huge fortune of this Ipoh, F.M.S., family.

A number of prominent and influential Chinese are understood to be supporting the petition and it was learned from some of these, that sympathy for the condemned youth is strong throughout the Colony.

SWEEP DISPUTE FORESHADOWED

SEQUEL TO RECENT DISQUALIFICATION

The disqualification of Champagne Bay on Saturday last in the last race on the programme at the race meeting at Happy Valley, may result in a legal fight over the prize money due on the South China Athletic Association Sweepstake.

It is understood that the holder of the ticket which drew Wonderful Stag has sent a letter to the Association demanding the first prize of $100,832. The matter has been passed on to Mr. M. K. Lo, the legal adviser of the Association.

There is a possibility that the entire distribution of prize money will thus be altered and holders of tickets, which have drawn horses, are awaiting the outcome of the dispute.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY

MR GREIG ELECTED CHEIFTAIN

ANNUAL MEETING LAST NIGHT

There was a large attendance of the members of St. Andrew's Society yesterday evening, when the annual general meeting was held in the Board Room of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., for the purpose of receiving the annual report and statement of accounts for the year ending August 31, 1932, and of electing office bearers for the ensuing year.

Mr. A. Stevenson, the retiring Cheftain, in his report said:—We have come to the end of another year, the 51st year of our Society and I submit that it has, on the whole, been a fairly successful one. We participated in three social functions viz: St. Andrew's Ball—our Jubilee, the Burns' Annual Dinner and the Sir Walter Scott Centenary Dinner, all of which were well attended and much enjoyed. Mr. Handyside, at the Burns' Dinner, very ably handled the main subject since it is becoming increasingly difficult to find new expressions on the phases of the life of "Robbie" Burns, but the result is astounding. Mr. Kay was not thus hampered with the Sir Walter Scott subject and his excellent speech will long be remembered by all who were present at the function, a sucnlike function which can only happen once in a man's lifetime. To date, I consider that the Hong Kong St. Andrew's Society has been extremely fortunate in obtaining such scholastic enthusiasts for these subjects.

Turning to the accounts, you will note that the subscriptions are down by $340 but the previous year was an exceptional one. The Balance in current accounts is $2,467.75, as compared with $4,546.90 in the previous year but that decrease is in the main accounted for by the increased amount ($2,006.67) paid away in charities; it should be explained that a sum of approximately $400 falls to be recovered from an outside source against that amount. I think no member will criticise this increase in charities as our Society is mainly run for such a purpose.

The Reel Club.

For the benefit of new members I wish to state that our Society was not actually the originator of this Club but most of us know that the originators were members of St. Andrew's Society and it was consequently in order that we should become its foster-mother. This Club has been a great success and has been the means of much improved dancing at our Annual Ball. It has started its new season with 108 members and a further increase in membership is expected.

The Scottish Volunteer Coy.

This Corps is forging ahead as best it can but it must be admitted that its roll is not on par with the number if eligible young Scotsmen in our Colony. We appeal to those who stand aside to step into a line where there is available space and thus show their loyalty and patriotism to the old country. The skirl of the pipes (we have an excellent pipe band) and the sight of the kilt should be enough to arouse the sentiments of the most indifferent.

We deeply regret we have to record the deaths of Messrs. S. A. Arthur, A. MacCallum and H. J. Lamb.

I cannot conclude without expressing our thanks to all members of Committees, the Hon. Treasurer, the Joint Hon. Secretaries and the Hon. Auditor for their able assistance throughout the period under review. The bulk of the work fell on the shoulders of the Secretaries—Messrs. Bryden and Robb; they have done it well and ungrudgingly and to them I tender my best thanks.

The New Chieftain.

The most important election of the evening was that of a new Chieftain. Mr. Stevenson proposed Mr. T. E. Greig which was seconded by Mr. J. W. C. Bonnar. Dr. Black next proposed Mr. A. L. Shields to be Vice-Chieftain which was seconded by Mr. A. H. Ferguson.

Other officers are, as follows:—Hon. Joint Secretaries: Messrs. E. M. Brydon and D. S. Robb; Hon. Joint Treasurers: Messrs. S. J. H. Fox and A. D. Mowson. Committee: Dr. J. W. Anderson, Messrs H. R. Forsyth, D. Gow, W. Kay, A. S. MacKichan, K. S. Morrison, J. B. Ross and R. A. McCloy.

Mr. Greig then proposed that the Society hold their usual Ball on St. Andrew's night and this was seconded by Mr. McClean.

The new Chieftain, in expressing his pleasure in accepting the office of Chieftain, said:—"I would like to say how conscious I am of the great honour bestowed upon me. I had a good deal of diffidence when the position was first offered to me, remembering the very good men who have gone before, not forgetting the now retiring Chieftain, Mr. Stevenson. It will be rather difficult for me to follow in the steps of an Ayrshire man, but as a humble Highlander I can at least do my best. I have the Society at heart and have been attached to it for 29 years.

"I now propose a vote of thanks to Mr. Stevenson for the good work he has done."

Mr Stevenson, in reply, then thanked all present for their kindness and expressed his regret that he could not have done more for the benefit of the Society. He has now been a member for 66 years.

The meeting closed after passing a hearty vote of thanks to Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., for the use of their board room.

OVERDUE SIBERIAN MAILS

TWELVE BAGS ARRIVING TO-MORROW

Twelve bags of outstanding London mail, via Siberia, will arrive here on Sunday on the s.s. Shantung from Shanghai. The date of this mail is July 25, London.

In the light of the immediate arrival of this batch of mail, it is generally expected that the balance of overdue mail which has been delayed at Manchuli will arrive here very shortly.

LONDON TO HONG KONG IN 14 DAYS!

MAIL RECEIVED YESTERDAY

With the arrival of the s.s. Akita Maru yesterday morning, a bundle of eleven letters was received at the G.P.O., which had been posted in London on September 16.

This smart delivery was made possible by sending the letters by air mail to Singapore from whence they were sent on here by steamer. The journey by air from London to Singapore was accomplished in eight days, and if a faster vessel had been engaged to convey the mail to Hong Kong, it is probable that the total period of transit from London would not have exceeded twelve or thirteen days!

It is expected that this mail route will be used extensively in the immediate future.

KOWLOON LADIES ROBBED

FOUR MONTHS FOR THIEF.

Mrs. Loseby, who lost a travelling clock, Miss Mavene a wrist watch and Miss Fernandes a finger ring and ear rings, were complainants before Mr. Butters yesterday when two Chinese were charged with larceny.

The police stated that they had little evidence against one of the defendants, who was accordingly discharged. The other defendant was sentenced to a total of four months' hard labour.

THE WOMAN IN THE CASE

DISTRICT WATCHMAN ON MURDER CHARGE

The case in which a district watchman is charged with the murder of a colleague was continued yesterday at Central Magistracy before Mr. Wynne Jones.

The accused is alleged to have shot a comrade after a quarrel with him at midnight on September 12, over the affections of a Chinese girl, in West Point.

The girl in question, giving evidence yesterday, stated that on the night of the shooting, the deceased saw her for ten minutes in the streets after the accused and a friend had been to see her earlier in the evening. She admitted that she told the deceased that she had refused the friend which the accused had brought along.

Accused: When you told him that, did he appear to be angry?—No.

What reply did he make to you?—He said nothing in reply but merely smiled and left.

Answering further questions, witness said that the whole of the ten minutes which she spent with the deceased was taken up by conversation concerning the accused. She said that the deceased did not say anything and that she did all the talking.

After further evidence by other witnesses, the case was adjourned.

CORNISHMAN CHARGED WITH VAGRANCY

SENT TO HOUSE OF DETENTION.

T. T. Beale, a native of Cornwall, appeared at Central Police Court yesterday on a charge of vagrancy.

Detective Sergeant C. Motgram informed his Worship that just before the departure of the s.s. Hin Sang for Bangkok two days ago, the defendant crawled out from the bunkers in a very distressed condition, overcome by the fumes. He then declared that he had attempted to stow away from Hong Kong. He had arrived from Vancouver in February last and since then had been trying his luck in various ports along the coast and in Japan, and had now come to the end of his resources.

The defendant had once been in the Pennsylvania oil fields. He had gone to Canada in the Government's harvesting fields and had also been in various cities of the United States. He had booked from Vancouver to Singapore but on arrival in Hong Kong was informed that he would have to deposit a sum of money before landing at Singapore. He then decided to disembark at Hong Kong.

The defendant remarked that on arrival in Hong Kong the N.Y.K., on whose ship he had travelled, informed him that he would be required to deposit $200 Straits dollars, but later the price was raised. He could have put up the $200, but was unable to find the increased sum. He had arrived from Vancouver at his own expense.

His Worship committed the defendant to the House of Detention.

CITY SNATCHING INCIDENT

YOUNGSTER OF FOURTEEN ARRESTED.

A young Chinese of fourteen was arrested yesterday following a bag snatching incident near the Dairy Farm.

Mrs. A. Horne and her daughter were walking down the steep flight of stone steps at the rear of the Dairy Farm building when Mrs. Horne felt a tug at her bag. She saw a Chinese youth run past her into Wyndham Street and raised a hue and cry and a European warder and an Indian constable, who were in Wyndham Street, at the time chased and caught the youth, who will probably come before the Court to-day.

HONG KONG, OCTOBER 1, 1932.

RESULTS OF OTTAWA.

THE Ottawa Conference is over and especially in view of the political repercussions in England there is a wide curiosity as to what the decisions of the Conference mean to British and to world trade. This legitimate curiosity cannot be satisfied in detail. Although Great Britain has agreed to the publication of preferences which it is prepared to give, some of the Dominions desire that the proposals shall not be published in detail until they have been laid before their Parliaments. Even so, it is clear that the agreements made constitute a comprehensive plan for the promotion of inter-Empire trade, and they lay solid foundations upon which to build a new policy of economic cooperation. Considering the difficulties in the way this is a remarkable achievement.

An interesting feature of the settlement is the new duties which Great Britain undertakes to impose principally on wheat and raw metals, and the arrangements for the quantitative regulation of meat imports. The tariff barriers between the different parts of the Empire preferences. Time will be substantially reduced by a considerable extension of trade preferences. Time will be needed for the full effect of this effort at economic cooperation to be known, but it is possible to summarise what has been done. In brief, Great Britain agrees to (1) the continuance of free entry of all Empire goods now duty free, subject to certain exceptions; (2) the present general ten per cent ad valorem duty not to be reduced without the consent of some of the Dominions Governments; (3) increased duties on foreign goods will be conditional on Empire supplies being available at prices not exceeding world prices. Commodities scheduled for such increases include wheat, butter, cheese, fruit and eggs.

In a special agreement with Canada only appears an anti-dumping clause, which guarantees the maintenance of preferences against frustration by "State action on the part of any country;" and, finally, in an agreement with Australia, Great Britain undertakes to regulate the importation of meat with a view to an improvement in the position resulting to producers from the low level of world prices.

In return for these concessions Great Britain is to receive the following advantages and preferences from the Dominions and colonies. Canada agrees that the tariff be based on a principle of protection giving Great Britain opportunities for reasonable competition; free entry or increased preferences for some 220 items; adjustment of the iron and steel tariffs on the basis of unofficial understandings reached. New Zealand will exempt Great Britain from the existing surtax, increase a few preferences, and provide for an inquiry into existing duties with a view to placing the home country in the position of a domestic competitor. South Africa gives increased preferences on mining and industrial machinery, duties on foreign textiles, and new preferences on several classes of manufactured goods. Newfoundland offers preferences next year, conditional on satisfactory arrangements being arrived at in the meantime for the import of Newfoundland iron ore into Great Britain. India gives a seven and a half per cent preference on motor vehicles, and a ten per cent preference on a wide range of other articles. Australia will give increased preferences over a wide range of commodities of which details will be published later.

Such, briefly, is a statement of the reciprocal "give and take" arrangements between Great Britain and her colonies. Finally, the Conference put on record its conviction that these agreements by lowering or removing barriers will facilitate the flow of trade between the various countries of the Empire and that the consequent increase of their purchasing power will also stimulate the trade of the world.

★ News and Views ★

Scarcely New

A German scientist claims to have invented a method of obtaining gold from sand. It is only fair to point out, however, that the grocers of long ago thought of it first.

Overlooked.

Writing in a popular weekly, a manufacturer says that over 300 silkworms are required to produce a pair of silk stockings. He does not mention the very ordinary worm who toils about ten hours a day to provide the wherewithal.

An Odd Sign.

A correspondent who was recently motor-cycling in the Highlands tells us that refreshment house signs have cropped up in all the out-of-the-way corners. He saw one dangling from the branch of a tree in a western village. It was of cardboard, and bore the inscription, "Tea, biscuits, lemonade, and milk inside Margaret MacLeod."

Not Sassenachs.

There are said to be two prices for everything in some of the Highland tourist resorts—one for the natives and one for strangers. A pair of London "Macs," who recently paid a visit to a refreshment room, were asked to pay 2s. for a couple of bottles of aerated waters and some biscuits. One remarked in Gaelic, "Is that how you treat your own people when they come back again!" The old woman flushed and, reducing her charge by 50 per cent., explained that she thought she was serving mere Sassenachs!

The Giant Blackberry.

A new blackberry, claimed to be the largest and most luscious ever cultivated, was exhibited by a Bedford firm of fruit growers at the Royal Horticultural Society's show in London.

It has been named Bedford Giant, and is a cross between a blackberry and a veitchberry. The veitchberry was obtained through crossing a raspberry and a blackberry.

Bedford Giant has berries as large as damsons, and is the result of years of patient experiment. It will probably be two or more years before Bedford Giant is put on the market, as the growers have only a limited number of plants as yet.

Not for Sale.

When asked by a reporter how much a plant would cost to-day a representative of the growers replied—"Money could not buy one of these plants to-day, or for many months to come." The same firm has carried out some interesting experiments in raising new berried fruits during recent years. In addition to the veitchberry they recently introduced the Worcester berry, which is a cross between a gooseberry and a black currant. It is black in colour and its flavour is a peculiar blend of both parents.

Something New in Bubbly.

British-made wine has been talked of occasionally of late years—generally in rather a disparaging way by connoisseurs. But a well-known London judge of these things is enthusiastic about some champagne made in England—of course from grapes imported in bulk from France. By a new and secret process of rapid fermentation something approaching a vintage wine is being produced at a comparatively moderate cost. This champagne is talked of as likely to be put on the market at 5s. or 6s. a bottle! No headaches afterwards, has not been specifically guaranteed.

More Irishisms.

The refusal of Ulster people to recognise "afternoon" is in accordance with conversational practice all over Ireland, says a correspondent, and in the South and West there is another peculiarity of speech. The people never use either "yes" or "no" in answering a question. The will reply "I do," or "We have not," giving an odd emphasis to their most casual statements. Is this because "yes" and "no" have no equivalent in Gaelic?

Political Broadcasts.

The B.B.C. has revised its policy on political broadcasts and has decided to introduce in the autumn session, beginning early in October, a regular political talk or discussion every Friday evening.

Prominent politicians will be invited to broadcast on selected subjects, and replies and discussions will be arranged.

The B.B.C. will exercise care in presenting a "balance" in the broadcasts on controversial subjects.

It may be recalled that recently Mr. Winston Churchill was refused permission by the B.B.C. to broadcast his views on the world crisis, even though he offered to pay £50 for the privilege.

Under the Seal

The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey reports startling underwater discoveries on the Pacific Coast. Just north of Monterey Bay the Survey ship Guide plumbed a submarine valley three miles long, one mile wide, and 1,200 feet deep. A submerged mountain 7,000 feet high, which was once a volcano, has been found 50 miles south-west of San Francisco. The delighted and enterprising San Francisans would probably add the cone-shaped peak to the delectable hills of their peninsula except for a puzzle in the salvaging process: They'd have to drain the Pacific which is not to be thought of unless the breweries and distilleries get going against.

When Psychologists Ruled.

The Hispanic-American conference at Washington claims to have found a solution of the great riddle of the Inca civilization. Dr. Victor A. Belaunde of the University of Miami (Florida) and the University of Lima (Peru) explains how human material, unpromising in its parts, could yet build the vast Inca empire. The Indians, then as now, were lazy and idle, but the Inca rulers were true psychologists who organised and directed these Indians in workers wonders. If the Inca princes had survived they would belong to the economic royalty to-day—would be running railroads and stamping our steel.

India to Use Radio.

Proposals to install wireless in some villages in western India have been made to the Bombay Government by Mr. E. Duncan Smith, wireless consultant to the Government of India. The scheme, framed for the Bombay Presidency, will take advantage of the latest improvements in radiocasting apparatus.

It is proposed to choose villages in the centre of well-populated areas and establish listening posts in them. A listening post will consist of a ferro-concrete cubicle with a loudspeaker on the roof.

From the Files.

Looking Back 25 Years.

A London correspondent sends us the following extract:—"The Hong Kong correspondent of the Central News says: Great dissatisfaction is being manifested here with regard to the postal service to and from Europe, via the Siberian Railway. The newspapers are now advocating the use of the slower, but more reliable, sea routes, and it is urged that the attention of the British Post Office should be called to the matter without delay." Our correspondent suggests that this may account for letters marked on the covers "Via Siberia" being sent from Hong Kong by the German or French mails; and he adds: "I cannot understand why the Hong Kong papers should oppose that route; people need not send by it unless they like, and it is, even from Hong Kong a great deal quicker. I have had communications from Shanghai in twenty days, and I know of others who have had them in seventeen."—Hong Kong Daily Press, October 1, 1907.

Looking Back 50 Years.

The electric light seems to have made good its position as an established institution at Shanghai. With its small capital of Tls. 50,000 there is every prospect that the Company will pay. The lighting of the extensive wharfage of the settlement would almost secure this, and there can be little doubt that all the wharf owners will shortly follow the example of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company in having their wharves illuminated by the electric light. In addition to this there is a reasonable probability that the Company will obtain the contract for lighting the streets and roads of the settlements.—Hong Kong Daily Press, October 1, 1882.

WHERE THE GAOLS ARE ALL FULL

STRANGE HABITS OF RUSSIANS IN CANADA.

In the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, and Saskatchewan there are about 10,000 Doukhobors, the first of whom went to Canada from Russia in 1898. To-day about one-tenth of their numbers are in gaol, most of them under-three-year sentences, because of their extraordinary habit of parading publicly in the nude, and the situation presented to the Government of Canada is both expensive and embarrassing.

Finding it impossible to accommodate 1,000 Doukhobors, men and women, in the Federal penitentiaries, the Government is establishing prison colonies for them in the islands of Piers and D'Arcy, off the British Columbia coast. The latter is only twenty miles from Victoria, and once was a leper settlement. In these islands the Doukhobors will be provided with buildings and implements, and to a large extent must provide their own livelihood. Maintenance of their children in the meantime is a charge upon the provincial treasury.

The Doukhobors are opposed to violence, although a few among them are not adverse to bombing: an occasional school house or piece of railway trackage, and when they encounter difficulties with the civil authorities their favourite argument consists in prompt and public disrobing. Troubles which lead to these performances generally have their origin in census-taking, the payment of taxes, or the attendance of their children at school. Between the beginning of May and the end of June 953 of them have received prison terms, and in addition their supreme spiritual leader, Peter Veregin, himself is in prison under conviction of perjury.

Do Not Smoke or Drink.

In many respects the Doukhobors are splendid citizens. They are industrious, do not smoke, drink, or swear. But the police find themselves arresting for nudity men who own well-equipped farms and women of the utmost respectability. One man arrested recently admitted possession of a farm and £3,000 in the bank. A woman who disrobed because she believed she should, turned out to be the owner of three fine farm properties. The sect is communal by nature, the Doukhobors distrust police and courts and all the processes of law, they have little to do with outsiders, and they resent fiercely any interference with their customs and habits.

Communal property of the Doukhobors in the three provinces is valued at more than £2,000,000, and in addition many of them have money and lands in their own right. Their common holdings are controlled by Veregin, under whom is a board of directors. They show no signs, after more than 30 years, of assimilating with the general population, as is the tendency of all other races represented in Canada, and it is only after the failure of gentler means patiently applied that the Government decided on the present more drastic measures. To meet the situation legislation was passed at a resent session of Parliament making deliberate displays in the nude a criminal offence.

MURDEROUS ZEALOTS

Lumberton, North Carolina.—An argument by two farmers over the meaning of a passage in the Bible led to the death of one.

One of the disputants struck the other with a brass knuckle duster during the argument, killing him instantly. The younger man fled and blood hounds were put on his trail.

RUSSIAN OIL IN MANCHURIA

DUMPING POLICY REPORTED TO BE IN PROCESS

Dairen, Sept. 22.—A great deal of attention is being attracted to the steady increase of imports of Russian oil into Manchuria. This is said to be the result of the adoption of active dumping policy by Soviet Russia in accordance with the five year plan.

Whereas about 150,000 barrels of oil were landed here in April, another 200,000 barrels are expected to reach here from Batum in October or November this year. With the arrival of the new shipment, a fierce competitive war is likely to be staged between the Soviet Oil Syndicate and the combination of the Standard Oil, the Asiatic Petroleum and Texas Oil Companies on the other.

NEW MEMBERS OF BRITISH MINISTRY

DOUBLE OFFICE FOR MR. BALDWIN

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.

SEVERAL new ministerial appointments necessitated by the mass resignation of the Samuelite Liberals from the National Government were announced to-day.

The King has approved that Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Lord President of Council be appointed Lord Privy Seal, the office from which Lord Snowden resigned. Mr. Baldwin will combine both offices, but will hold the latter without salary.

Junior ministerial vacancies have been filled as follows:

Mr. Hore Belisha, National Liberal, former-Under-Secretary to the Board of Trade to be Financial Secretary to the Treasury in succession to Major Walter Elliot, new Cabinet Minister.

The Earl of Plymouth, Conservative, former Under Secretary for the Dominions, to be Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, vice Lord Lothian.

Mr. R. A. Butler, Conservative, to be Parliamentary Under-Secretary to the India Office, vice Sir Robert Hamilton.

Dr. E. L. Burgin, Nation Liberal, to be Parliamentary Under-Secretary to the Board of Trade.

Col. Morley Headlam, Conservative, one time Under-Secretary at the Admiralty, to be Parliamentary Under-Secretary to the Ministry of Transport.

National Labour.

The Labour supporters of the Government in both Houses of Parliament to-day met the Premier at No. 10, Downing Street and afterwards issued a statement affirming their unabated confidence in his leadership.

They regret the "revival of the fiscal controversy in a form they regard as altogether out of date" and take the view that the "difficulties of the situation both at home and abroad are so great that to return to the old system of partisan government and bitter party warfare, would gravely prejudice the national interests and be contrary to the national will."

KING AND QUEEN IN LONDON

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Sept. 29.

THE King and Queen this evening ended their stay in Scotland. The Royal train by which they are travelling South will reach London to-morrow morning.

His Majesty will during the day give an audience to the Ministers who have resigned, receiving from them their seals of office, and will later hand these to the newly appointed Ministers.

WAS IT APPENDICITIS?

CATTLE SCOURGE THAT MAY AFFECT MAN.

People who have had their appendixes removed will be interested in a discussion which took place at Folkestone. They will be puzzled to know whether they really had appendicitis or undulant fever.

The discussion took place at the annual congress of the National Veterinary Medical Association of Great Britain and Ireland, and it arose when the delegates were considering the effects of contagious abortion, a cattle scourge which might infect man and cause undulant fever. Dr. W. H. Andrews, director of the veterinary laboratory of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries at Weybridge, in a paper on the subject, said that it was now certain that contagious abortion might infect man. Many cases were probably still undetected, but the total number was comparatively small. The organism had a very low virulence for the average human being, but there were susceptible individuals.

Sir W. Dalrymple Champneys, of the Ministry of Health, said that in a number of instances the disease was diagnosed as other complaints. Sometimes people had their appendixes taken out.

Professor C. S. Wilson, of the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, said that undulant fever was not well recognised among the medical profession, and practitioners had mistaken it for appendicitis, influenza, and gall stones. Records had been collected of 129 cases of undulant fever in Great Britain and Ireland. The disease was most common in adult males, and its severity could be gauged by the fact that the average duration had been over ten weeks. Most cases in this country occurred in the town population, and reasons were advanced for believing that the vehicle of infection was usually milk or cream.

WAR IN SOUTH AMERICA

FRESH FIGHTING IN CHACO

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.

DESPITE the efforts to find an amicable settlement of the dispute between Bolvia and Paraguay, hostilities have now been resumed on a fair scale.

As the result of the renewal of fighting, Paraguayan troops claim to have captured the forts at Bouqueron and Toledo in the Gran Chaco.

Bolivia is responding to the offensive by making extensive preparations for a big-scale campaign.

Chile Outbreak.

Meanwhile the peace of South America continues broken elsewhere. It is reported from Santiago de Chile that a counter-revolutionary movement has broken out. Nothing is known regarding the outcome of the new development.

SCOTTISH DUKE'S DEATH

FOLLOWING ILLNESS AT FUNERAL

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Sept. 29.

THE death occurred to-day of the 8th Duke of Roxburghe, aged fifty-six, who suddenly became ill when attending a friend's funeral yesterday.

The Duke, who was the head of an old Scottish family, had served with distinction in the Boer War and the Great War, in both of which he was wounded.

He was a personal friend of the King and Queen. He is succeeded in the title by his nineteen-year-old son, the Marquis of Bowmont.

MORE MARRIAGES IN PARIS

YOUNG PEOPLE UNDISMAYED BY ECONOMIES

According to statistics just made public by the different Paris municipal offices, the prevailing financial stringency has not affected the marriage rate, contrary is the case, though there are fewer church weddings.

At the mairie on the 5th Arrondissement inquiries elicited that young couples were just eager as ever before to be married and were more optimistic than the economists. There ten to twelve marriages a day was the rule.

The mairie of the 17th Arrondissement gave figures of 40 a week, which no economic crisis had hit.

The prominent Paris churches report fewer weddings, which is a state of things perhaps unhappy for the dressmakers, but papa is no doubt relieved.

CHITTAGONG BOMB OUTRAGE

GOVERNMENT GIVES WARNING

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

DARJEELING, Sept. 29.

A HEAVY fine may be imposed upon the section of the Chittagong community concerned in the attack upon the European Institute last week-end when a British woman was killed and sixteen other persons were wounded.

A communique issued by the Government to-day says that the fine will be inflicted unless the perpetrators of the outrage are found by October 15. The Government declares that the attack could not have been arranged without the knowledge of the local people.

FURTHER 'QUAKES IN GREECE

BRITISH SAILORS IN RESCUE WORK

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Sept. 29.

FURTHER earthquake shocks are reported from the neighbourhood of Salonica where the Town Hall and several Government buildings are said to have been damaged and in the Chalcidice region of Greece.

The casualties of the big quake are now estimated at about 300 dead.

Throughout to-day, rescue Parties from the British warships which hastened to the scene have been busily engaged organising relief and helping thousands of refugees.

CASUALTIES NOT YET KNOWN

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

ATHENS, Sept. 30.

The final list of earthquake victims is not yet available as many bodies are pinned beneath ruins. Many are possibly alive in the debris without hope of rescue.

Three hundred are known to be dead and a thousand injured, while three thousand are homeless.

British sailors continue the demolition of dangerous buildings. Many bodies have already been recovered.

Three more violent shocks occurred at Chalcidice and one at Salonica, where many of the important buildings now have large fissures in their walls.

Athenian society ladies are hastening to the devastated areas to act as nurses. Survivors of the disaster relate that domestic animals had a premonition of disaster several hours in advance of the great 'quake. They were panic-striken and made frenzied attempts to escape from houses.

The monks at Mount Athos Monastery are prevented from joining in the rescue work. They are cut off from the rest of the peninsula by mighty crevasses from which is issuing a sulphurous odour.

50 YEARS OF LAUGHTER GIVING

MR. MACDONALD'S TRIBUTE TO SIR HARRY LAUDER.

London, Aug. 25.—In a letter regretting his inability to be present at Sir Harry Lauder's jubilee concert at Arbroath on Tuesday, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald wrote:—

"My Dear Harry,—I am so sorry I cannot possibly get down to Arbroath for your jubilee concert as my drivers will not let me out of harness. This is a great disappointment to me. For 50 years you have been making us happy, and, the art you have employed has not had a tinge of the degrading in it. You have dealt with the great fundamental human simplicities and have taught us to find joy and inspiration in qualities and feeling which belong to the good things in human life.

"Although 'jubilee' is a word of honour it is also ominous, but I hope that for many years yet we may see that merry twinkle in your eye, hear that infectious laugh, and be drawn to you by that pawky wisdom and fine human tenderness which are the essence of your genius."

S.S. NEVADA TOTAL LOSS

THIRTY-TWO OF CREW DROWNED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.

THIRTY-TWO people were drowned from the thirty-five aboard the American freighter, Nevada, which was wrecked off Amatignak Island, in the Behring Sea, according to a wireless message received by the Dollar Steamship Co. from the President Madison which is bringing the survivors to Seattle.

The Nevada went ashore during a gale on the night of September 27 and in response to S.O.S. messages ships rushed to the rescue.

The Japanese cargo boat, Oregon Maru, located and stood by the Nevada but it was too rough to launch a boat before the Nevada was pounded to pieces on the rocks.

[The wrecked vessel, which sailed from Portland, Oregon, on Sept. 15, was regularly engaged on the run to Japanese ports, Shanghai, Hong Kong and Manila.

LONDON FLOWER GIRL

SUMMONED AFTER 35 YEARS

London, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Lydia Joseph, of Fairbank-street, Hoxton, who has sold flowers outside the Stock Exchange for 35 years, was summoned at the Guildhall to-day for causing an obstruction in Throgmorton-street.

There was also a summons against her in respect of her son, a young man out of employment, for permitting him to help her in the business of a street trader. It was alleged that he was not licensed.

Through the help of sympathisers, Mrs. Joseph was able to employ counsel, and Mr. E. C. Randall appeared for her.

Constable Will said that Mrs. Joseph thrust flowers in the faces of passers, compelling them to walk into the road.

Several complaints had been made to the police.

Alderman Sir W. Phene Neal: Unless you can produce the people who made these complaints I shall attach no importance to them.

The Constable: They will not come forward.

Mrs. Joseph was fined 2s. 6d. The summons in respect of her son was dismissed.

ITALY'S CRACK LINER

ENGINE TROUBLE CAUSES DELAY

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.

THE Rex, Italy's newest and largest ship, which left Genoa on Tuesday on her maiden trip may possibly be still at Gibraltar on October 4, the date she is due in New York.

The hush-hush policy of the company has concealed the defects which caused her late arrival in Gibraltar, but it is rumoured that her turbines and dynamos need attention.

Not a word of the accident has been published in any Rome newspaper.

Reuter's Gibraltar correspondent wires that the passengers, who include the United States Ambassador in Rome and the ex-Mayor of New York, Mr. Jimmy Walker, have now been allowed to go ashore, the company having apparently given up hope of a quick repair of the trouble and of concealing the cause of the breakdown.

Squads of dockyard hands have been working all night long on the ship's turbines. It appears that she was speeding at twenty-five knots an hour until she was within two hours of Gibraltar, when a defect developed and caused her to slow down to ten knots an hour.

On her trials down the Ligurian coast, the average speed of the liner was 29 knots.

CHANGES IN THE PRESS

USE OF BULLETINS IN INDIA

NEWS SERVICE BY B.B.C.

The annual conference of the Institute of Journalists opened at Cardiff on Aug. 22.

Sir Emsley Carr, who was elected president for the second successive year, in his opening address, said that the year just passed was memorable, not only in the annals of the institute, but also in the annals of the profession. A number of old-established papers had ceased to exist. Unemployment had been rife. And yet, saddened as they were at the loss of these old friends, it would be unwise to regard the future of the industry with dark forebodings.

It was computed that the aggregate circulation of the nation and provincial daily and Sunday newspapers in Britain to-day was 29,000,000, of which, 22,000,000 was national newspaper circulation. The annual value of morning and evening newspaper sales was £19,500,000, and of Sunday newspapers £7,500,000.

Gone to-day were the solid columns; gone the single headlines; gone, with one or two notable exceptions, the three-deckers. In their place, the bright open make-up with descriptive headings; the small, bright leaderettes, full of fact and fancy.

Fifty years ago the reading public was supposed to have only one interest in life—home politics. The "human interest" story was a thing absolutely unknown, and the contents were as solidly Victorian as the mahogany furniture so characteristic of the age. Verbatim reports of speeches and extensive reviews of new books filled more space than the news. Foreign politics were almost disregarded, and foreign news rarely occupied more than a half to a full column.

To-day there was not one part of the terrestrial—and, should he add, of the celestial?—world which was not of interest to the British public. There was no quarter of the globe where it was not imperative that the Press should have its representative.

The Age of Combines.

Combines had replaced the individual newspaper owner. Indeed, there were many who, judging by present tendencies, thought that the age of the big combines had only just begun. With the inhabitants of the world becoming more and more dependent and interdependent, and the demand for world news becoming ever more intense, the great changes which must inevitably be made in production necessitated more and more capital being introduced.

If he were asked to give a forecast of what would happen 50 years hence, he would hazard the opinion that the changes would be as radical as those which had taken place during the last generation. He could see a vast change for the better in production and material; larger and brighter papers; the introduction not only of coloured supplements but the advancement of illustration by means of photogravure, colour, and additional line and artistic work. The art of publishing would be improved by the extensive use of the aeroplane. Wireless and television would be a commonplace both for news and pictures, and speed-up in mechanical production would be followed by a further development of world-wide news. The additional expense to meet these great reforms would be met by the ever-increasing demands by the advertiser upon space. Advertising in this country was in its infancy: advertising not only for the sake of increasing the sale of ordinary articles of domestic use and promoting great industries, but also for advancing the interests of towns, provinces, and even empires.

It would be absurd to deny the power of broadcasting, but so far as this country was concerned he did not think broadcasting would materially affect the position of the late evening papers. The spoken word would never replace the printed word.

Disturbing Aspect.

There was, however, an international aspect of this question which was very disturbing: the facilities which broadcasting gave to papers which did not subscribe to the news services maintained by the British Press and sent not every day by the B.B.C. In India there were hundreds of papers published in the vernacular of a seditious character which did not subscribe to any news service.

In the past their readers had to rely for news on the English papers published there. To-day these vernacular papers were capturing those broadcast messages, and the "failed B.A.s" on their staffs were transcribing them into the vernacular for publication. The consequence was that the promoters of these seditious publications, with little or no capital at their command, were able to supply news from all parts of the world and produce papers which competed with the English papers.

Thus the B.B.C. was unwittingly subsidizing papers of a seditious character at the expense of the British taxpayer. How this difficulty was to be overcome it was not easy to see. A committee has been appointed to consider the whole question and make recommendations.

THREAT OF WAR IN SZECHUAN

PLACATORY MOVE FROM NANKING

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, Sept. 29.

CIVIL war is brewing in Szechuan as the result of enmity between the provincial militarists, according to private messages received to-day.

The representatives of the Szechuanese generals who are resident in Nanking held a meeting this morning and decided to wire their respective chiefs to avoid conflict.

SOUTH-WESTERN SUPREME COURT

NOT RECOGNISED BY NANKING

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY]

NANKING, Sept. 30.

APPARENTLY without other effective means to prevent the establishment of a south-western branch of the Supreme Court in Canton the Judicial Yuan to-day instructed all Chinese Courts not to recognise rulings given by the Southern Extra Legal Tribunal.

Despite official denials, rumours still persist that the Cantonese authorities are contemplating the organisation of a branch of the Military Council.

TIBETAN TROOP MOVEMENTS

DENIED BY DALAI LAMA REPRESENTATIVE

NANKING, Sept. 29.—Current reports of military movements among the Tibetan troops in Hsikang in preparation for a general offensive against the combined Szechuan-Hsikang forces are denied by Mr. Kung Chio Chung Ni, resident representative of the Dalai Lama at Nanking.

According to the Tibetan representative, the contending forces are remaining at their positions across the Chinsha Kiang (River) and at present no hostile movements are being taken by the Tibetans pending a peaceful settlement of the trouble.

In the meantime, a delegation of nine representing the people of Hsikang province is on its way here to petition the Central Authorities for immediate measures to settle the Hsikang problem. The delegates will first stop at Hankow to see General Chiang Kai Shek, President of the Military Affairs Commission.—Kuo Min.

CANTON-HANKOW RAILWAY

LOAN CONTEMPLATED FOR COMPLETION

Nanking, Sept. 29.—Completion of the entire Canton-Hankow Railway within three years, instead of eleven years as would be required under present arrangements with the Board of Trustees of the British Boxer Indemnity Refund for the appropriation of funds extending through that period, is under consideration by the Ministry of Railways.

It is learnt that the Ministry is planning to raise the sum of over $30 million necessary for the project by pledging the eleven annual instalments from the British Boxer Indemnity Refund as security for a large loan.—Kuo Min.

SHANGHAI RAILWAYS

Nanking, Sept. 26.—The Ministry of Railways is planning to construct short branch lines in Greater Shanghai for the development of the municipal area.

An order to the Nanking-Shanghai and Shanghai-Hangchow Railway Administration instructs that survey operations be started immediately and an estimate of cost prepared for the construction of feeder lines linking the following places: Chenju and Jossfield; Chenju and Kiangwan; and Kiangwan station and Jukong village on the bank of the Whangpoo River, half-way between the International Settlement and Woosung. The last line aims at the development of Jukong village into an important waterfront area.—Kuo Min.

SHANGHAI STATISTICS

TOTAL POPULATION OF OVER 3,000,000

Shanghai, Sept. 26.—The total population of Shanghai last month, including the Chinese city, International Settlement and French Concession is 3,006,789, according to the latest census returns compiled by the Greater Shanghai Municipal Bureau of Public Safety. Of these 2,947,103 are Chinese, 59,686 foreigners.

1,583,921 Chinese reside in the Chinese city, 971,397 in the International Settlement and 391,785 in the French Concession. The number of foreign residents is 9,313, 39,471 and 12,902 respectively in the two foreign areas.

Compared with the preceding month of July, the population shows an increase of 16,884 persons.—Kuo Min.

LOST £600,000

EARLY INVESTOR WHO SOLD FORD SHARES TOO SOON

Mr. Albert Strelow, one of the original shareholders in the Ford Motor Company, has died in Detroit at the age of 76.

Mr. Strelow invested £1,000. In the first year he made 300 per cent. on his investment, and soon sold his shares for £3,000. If he had kept the shares a few years longer he would have made £600,000.

After selling the shares, Mr. Strelow went to North-West Canada, where he lost his £3,000 in a mining investment. Returning to Detroit, he queued up among thousands of unemployed seeking work at the Ford factory.

U.S. WOMEN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

MRS. ENID WILSON ELIMINATED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.

THE attempt of Miss Enid Wilson, the English woman golf champion, to annex the American women's title in the championship tournament at Peabody, Massachusetts, ended surprisingly to-day.

Miss Wilson had been playing brilliantly and the expectation was general that she would get through to the final, where her opponent was expected to be Mrs. Collett Vare, the former U.S. champion. To-day, however, she was right out of form on the greens and went down by one hole to Miss Charlotte Glutting.

The match was in the quarter-finals of the competition and Miss Wilson's defeat was entirely due to her erratic putting. The only foreigner now in the competition is Miss Ada Mackenzie (Canada).

Quarter-Finals.

Miss Charlotte Glutting beat Miss Enid Wilson (Britain), by one hole.

Miss Ada Mackenzie (Canada) beat Miss Maureen Orcutt, by 2 and 1.

Mrs. Collett Vare beat Miss Peggy Wattles by 2 and 1.

Miss Virginia van Wie beat Miss Rosalie Kuspp by 3 and 2.

V.R.C. CHAMPIONSHIP

BREAST STROKE RECORD BROKEN

Further progress was made in the V.R.C. swimming championships yesterday when three open events were decided.

In the 100 yards breast stroke, Kwok Chun Hang (S.C.A.A.) who broke the bath record in the heats last Wednesday repeated his feat, this time by one second—returning the excellent time of 77 seconds. Hector Remedios, last year's winner, was a close second, his time being 78 2/5 seconds. From the beginning till the third length, both Remedios and Kwok were struggling for the leadership, and the result was very doubtful until about five yards from the winning post when the Chinese gave a final spurt.

Thrills and excitement were provided by the three competitors, L. Roza-Pereira, W. Lawrence and S. V. Gittins, in the 220 yards championship. From the beginning till almost the end, all of them were together, with Gittins holding a slight advantage. In the final spurt however, Roza Pereira, who is well-known for his stamina, began a spurt and eventually won by a yard. Lawrence was second and Gittins third.

S.H. Garrod (Y.M.C.A.) was the easy winner in the Long Plung Championship, his distance being 61 feet 9 inches. J. R. Soares who was second plunged 56 feet 6 inches.

Results.

The results were as follows:

100 yards championship (Breast Stroke): 1, Kwok Chun Hang (77 seconds, record); 2, H.M. Remedios (78 2/5 seconds).

200 yards Chmpionship (Free style): 1, L. Roza-Pereira; 2, W. Lawrence, Time: 2 mins. 37 3/5 secs.

Long Plunge Championship: 1, S.H. Garrod; 2, J.R. Soares. Distance: 61 feet 9 inches.

Members under water Race (25 yards): 1, H.M. Remedios, 2, S.E. Sousa Time: 19 seconds.

To-day's Programme.

ARMY TENNIS

LEAGUE FINAL TO-DAY

A large gathering of military tennis enthusiasts will doubtless assemble at Sookunpoo to-day, to witness the final of the Army Tennis League between the Royal Army Ordnance Corps and the H.K.S. Brigade, Royal Artillery. The match is due to commence at 3 p.m.

The R.A.O.C. are certainly prospective winners but they have to reckon with good players in the opposition, among whom are Capt. Barry, H.K.S., M/Gnr. Wardle and Sgt. Platt.

In the event of the R.A.O.C. winning the game, "D" Coy. South Wales Borderers (runners-up in the Hong Kong section) have the right to challenge the H.K.S. Bde. for the position of runners-up in the league.

SWIMMING STARS TO TURN PROFESSIONAL

HELENE MADISON DESERTS AMATEUR RANKS

Los Angeles.—The amateur swimming and diving ranks of the United States may lose four of its greatest performers—all of them Olympic champions — in the near future. Helence Madison, Georg'a Coleman, Eleanor Holm and Mickey Riley Galitezen are reported to be considering turning professional.

Miss Madison, of Seattle, winner of of both the 100 metre and 400-metre titles in the tenth Olympic and holder of all the sixteen world's free style records, admitted to the Associated Press that she might sign a movie contract.

She said she had received several flattering offers and indicated that she would grab the best one very soon. "I feel that I have accomplished everything possible in amateur swimming and would now like to take a whirl at acting," said the aquatic queen. "Of course I would accept all the money obtainable. That would be the main reason for leaving my swimming."

Miss Coleman, and Galitezen, better known in the water sport as Mickey Riley are understood to be considering pairing up for a vaudeville tour.

It was common gossip at the close of the Games that they were working toward that end. The two won the spring-board diving championships in the Olympics. Both are of Los Angeles.

Reports have it that Miss Holm, America's greatest backstroke swimmer and winner of the woman's Olympic crown in that event, has a stage contract waiting her return to New York. She was said to have spurned an offer a few weeks ago because of the Games.

"SPLINTERS IN THE NAVY."

BRITISH COMEDY AT THE QUEEN'S.

A trade notice states:—

One of the many notable features of "Splinters in the Navy," is the number of attractive songs that are put over during the course of the film by the inimitable troupe of war comics. Reg Stone, that most charming of "Ladies," has two catchy melodies which he sings with his accustomed verve. The first of these, "Say Good-bye," is a first-rate foxtrot; while the second, "I've fallen in Love," is the sort of tune you feel you must whistle; in fact, Reg had all the Twickenham studio staff whistling it.

Hal Jones, the famous "Splinters" comic songster, sings "Tinker, Tailor" with Reg Stone; during the singing of which there are some delightfully amusing camera effects. But it is the theme song, "Call of the Sea," about which everyone will be crazy; a really beautiful melody, sung by Wilfred Temple.

"A HOUSE DIVIDED"

A NEW TRIANGLE ANGLE

A trade notice states:—

Strikingly dramatic action characterizes "A House Divided," Universal's powerful story showing at the Oriental Theatre, with Walter Huston, Kent Douglass and Helen Chandler in the featured roles.

The story is laid on the Northwestern coast of the United States, where a thin veneer of civilization covers the elemental passions of both men and women.

A situation fraught with possibilities is brought about when burly, domineering Seth Law secures a wife through an advertisement in a matrimonial magazine, and the bride promptly falls in love with his son. This boy has a sensitive nature and is the very antithesis of his father. The struggle between these two brings into

"MERRILY WE GO TO HELL"

"TENSE DRAMA" AT THE KING'S.

A trade notice states:—

Two stars of Major Brilliance! Sylvia Sidney and Fredric March shine together in a drama depicting modern youth, burning life swiftly, laughing uproariously, dissipating thoughtlessly. Youth with everything to win, flaunting the conventions, playing with love, gambling with destiny.

Fredric March portrays the devastating courage of a careless appetite for carousing. He stakes talent, love and happiness against the vicarious pleasures of riotous living, then near tragedy jerks him back to sanity.

Love enters the story adroitly. In youth March falls in love with a girl. It was a transient affair, but it raised in his mind an ideal, which in later years complicates his married life with Sylvia Sidney, and almost leads of tragedy.

Sylvia Sidney gives a splendid portrayal of the young wife who reverses her own headstrong course, and valiantly fights to stem the course of her husband's irresponsible life. Her final act of tragic portent definitely establishes herself as the primary interest in his life, rather than the false idealism born of an early infatuation.

Adrianne Allen, a blond beauty of the English stage, who recently featured in the Broadway stage show, "Cynara," plays the siren role with the subtle effectiveness of a trained artist. A new face on the American screen, attractive and intriguing, with a charm that's distinctly English.

play all the moral, psychological and physical force of both.

Walter Huston is the father. Kent Douglass is his son and Helen Chandler is the "mail-order bride." Other important roles are played by Vivian Oakland and Frank Hagney. The picture was directed by William Wyler from a magazine story by Olive Edens.

CHESTER MORRIS in a scene from "COCK OF THE AIR."

"COCK OF THE AIR"

FINE FILM AT CENTRAL

A trade notice states:—

"Cock of the Air" comes to the Central Theatre to-day. This is Howard Hughes' latest production, and once again the producer of "Hell's Angels," "The Front Page" and other film sensations, crashes through with a hit-picture.

"Cock of the Air," a United Artists picture, is a brilliant picturization of a daring story. It is ultra-sophisticated comedy, minus the usual vulgarity associated with sophisticated pictures.

Extravagantly produced, and brilliantly directed, "Cock of the Air" is sheer entertainment from start to finish.

It is played by a crack cast, headed by Chester Morris, and supported by Billie Dove, Matt Moore, Yola D'Avril, Walter Catlett, Vivien Oakland and Louis Alberni.

Lavish settings, and daring but deft treatment of a bold theme, combine to make "Cock of the Air" the sensation of comedies.

The story concerns the exciting love-match between the romantic "Ace" of the American service, played by Morris, and the "Toast of Paris," enacted by Miss Dove. The complications, which ensue when the "master" and "Mistress" of romance meet on common ground form the basis of an amazing and highly-spiced tale of love and adventure in a World War background.

Morris, as the gay romancer for the first time, is sensational. This performance has already won for him an army of new fans, particularly among the feminine contingent.

Billie Dove is seen in a vamping impersonation for the first time, and gives the most intriguing performance of her career.

"MILLION DOLLAR LEGS"

A JUGGLER LEARNS HIS TRADE

A trade notice states:—

The electric light bulb crashed to the bare floor with a resounding "plop," and words of disgust and disappointment tumbled from the lips of the thirteen year-old boy. Not that the bulb was any good, for it had long ago been discraded. But it was an essential part of the boy's act. Without that blub, the cracked billiard ball, the beer mug and the rusty egg-beater were useless. For the lads was learning the art of four-article juggling.

During the filming of "Million Dollar Legs," Paramount's Olympic Games farce which comes to the King's Theatre on Wednesday next, W. C. Fields, who is featured with Jack Oakie, Ben Turpin and Hank Manu, told the story of his difficult apprenticeship in the art of juggling. Although a mere boy—he was fifteen at the time of his first professional engagement—he created all his own juggling tricks and made his own apparatus.

"I didn't have any money to go see highly paid jugglers and copy their stunts," he said. "Neither could I buy material from supply houses. So I used any articles which lent themselves to juggling and made up my own routine. As a result, I had novelty when I finally got a chance.

"I evolved one trick with small cups on the ends of rods, catching small balls in the cups and continuing to juggle meanwhile. I made the rods from broom sticks and took the cups from the oil burners in my rooming house. I drilled holes in the latter and nailed them to the broom sticks.

"Without money to buy tights, I had to do a tramp act with my old, tattered clothes."

Even after he had attained international success, Fields, always used only the simplest articles in juggling. Kitchen utensils, tennis balls, light globes from the footlights and practically any movable article were his props. He interspersed his offerings with acrobatics and worked up a number or pantomime comedy acts such as his famous golf game.

In 1925, after many years of stardom in Ziegfeld's "Follies," Fields entered motion pictures in "Sally of the Sawdust." With Paramount, he made a long list of productions, and in "Million Dollar Legs," returns to his old producing company after a brief retirement.

with SALLY STARR, FRANCES UPTON, NORA LANE

—SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT—

WE ARE GLAD TO ANNOUNCE THAT WE WILL COMMENCE SHOWING THE BEST SUPER & SPECIAL RADIO, UNIVERSAL & BRITISH DOMINION PICTURES OF 1932-33 FROM THE BEGINNING OF NEXT MONTH.

GOSSIP & FACT.

Claudette's New House.

Claudette Colbert has just taken a new house, which she likes so much that she finds great difficulty in tearing herself away every morning when she has to leave for the studio. It is right on the top of a hill, and in the grounds is a large swimming-pool. There are sure to be some lively bathing parties there in the very near future.

"Letty Lynton."

"Letty Lynton," with Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery co-starring, is expected to be released before "Grand Hotel," each of these films being M-G-M productions. Fox Movietone's third release for the month will be "While Paris Sleeps."

Film to Cost Over £85,000.

It is announced that Pabst, the German director, has been engaged by Nelson Films to direct the talkfilm of "Don Quixote," which is to be made in English and French, with Chaliapine in the title part. It is estimated that the cost of the film will be over £85,000, and Chaliapine, who has an interest in the profits, will receive over £25,000. It is probable that George Robey will play the role of Sancho Panza, but, so far, no suggestion of an English girl suitable for the part of Dulcinea has found favour.
